He particularly likes songs with an historical perspective. Come hear some of the best of traditional and contemporary sea music.

Mar. 7: Dan Milner & Bob Conroy. Bob and Dan sing the songs of Irish immigrants, Liverpool Irish seamen and 19th Century New York Irish concert saloon performers. QUICKSTEP; Saturday, March 6th; 8 PM ☺

Lively fiddle tunes, folksongs and fancy footwork are featured in a concert from John Kirk, Trish Miller, Mac Benford and Ed Lowman. This versatile stringband from Upstate New York plays old-time music with twin fiddles, banjo, guitar, mandolin and bass. Dance is a regular part of their show, from step-dance to hambone. They have developed a diverse repertoire of original and old-time music rooted in the North Country. Some selections are sentimental, others are humorous and some are toe-tappin' barn burners.

John Kirk is best known for his great voice, and has always made his living as a musician. He calls dances, fiddles, and also plays mandolin, banjo and guitar. Several of his songs connect to the Adirondacks and North Country living. The Dixie Chicks recorded his song, Long Road. John teaches music at Bennington College in Vermont and is a dynamic emcee, clogger and jokester.

Trish Miller has been teaching and performing Appalachian clogging since 1981, and toured with the Green Grass Cloggers, from Asheville, NC. Trish calls square dances and plays banjo, lap dulcimer and guitar. She teaches banjo at Skidmore College, directs the dance stage at several festivals and gives workshops on North American folk dance in schools.

Mac Benford plays old-time banjo, sings and has been a mover and shaker in the revival of stringband music in America for over 30 years. He was a founding member of the Highwoods Stringband and the Backwoods Band, and now plays in a dynamic Ithaca, NY group called Up South. Mac and John were in the band The Woodshed Allstars, for over a decade. Mac is a treasure trove of sweet old tunes and songs, and has inspired many people to play old-time music.

Ed Lowman is a multi-instrumentalist and singer. Old-time and Cajun fiddling, bass, guitar, mandolin and carpentry are his trades. In addition to working with John and Trish since 1984, Ed has appeared with several groups including the St. Regis Stringband. He is known for his authentic rendering of early country songs, and yodeling like Jimmy Rogers.

At the Advent Lutheran Church, Broadway at 93rd St, Manhattan. FREE to NYPFMC members; $18 general public; $15 CD*NY members; $10 seniors and full-time students; $6 children under 12. For info: 1-718-549-1344 (after 11 AM.)

Winter is upon us as I write this column. What better way to stay warm than to be surrounded by music and friendly smiling faces. Our winter weekend is one such place and is fast approaching, and there were still some spaces left. The Warwick Conference Center is a pleasant, cozy place with a fireplace, a good sledding hill, and close to shopping and places to ski. Of course, there will be many people just hanging out, playing music, and doing jigsaw puzzles—or all three at once!!

February also brings the Sea Music Concert, the Chantey Sing, the Folk Open Sing, the Sacred Harp Singing, the Riverdale Sing and the Gospel & Sacred Harp Sing. Notice all of our singing activities where you can come and participate and enjoy the music and the people. We are also excited to announce that the next series concert is on March 6 with Quickstep. See our notices for details.

Congratulations to our Board and officers—see the listing inside. There are still spaces open. If you are interested, call Joy Bennett or just come to a board meeting to see for yourself how we work.

Thank you to the volunteers who come to mail out the newsletter! Thank you this month to: Irene Anderson, Ruth Block, Al Cadwallader, Julia Friend, Rosalie Friend, Isabel Goldstein, Suzanne Gottlieb, Brenda Pena, Anne Price, and Don Wade who delivered the pages from the printer. Won't you join us on Tuesday, March 2nd and help mail out the next newsletter? (See page 3 for details.)

The Folk Process

by Ruth Lipman

We make great music in our wonderful club, but that's not the only kind of fiddling around that goes on. Since Valentine's Day is in February, this month's column is devoted to celebrating romances kindled through the club. In other words, who met who where and when as well as whatever other intriguing details various individuals were willing to cough up.

RUTHIE INDEK and RAY KORONA first met at a music party at Patti Lee Parmalee's apartment. Ruthie writes, "We met again several months later at the 1980 Spring Weekend. Ray sat next to me in Sonja Savig's singing class and our attraction was solidified as we yelled 'hey' and 'ya' upside down. We have been together every since." In 1988, Ray wrote a song for Ruthie entitled "Tide of Love" about that fateful Spring Weekend.

ROSALIE and ALAN FRIEND's first encounter was at a singing party at Ruth Jacobson's house in August, 1970. At the party, Adele Harris, who was the club's social chairperson at the time, persuaded Rosalie to host another singing party. Alan attended and the rest is history. On October 24, 1971, they were married and their daughter, Julia, was born on May 4, 1983. Julia is currently attending college.

Jean Halpern introduced WAYNE PRICE to ANNE OHAYON at a Frankie Armstrong concert during the summer of 1982. Two of their early dates were weddings of Anne's friends. (Talk about foreshadowing!) The affections of Anne and Wayne waxed and they were married in 1982. Their son, Jason, an extremely gifted artist, was born in 1983. Jason is studying art in college.

SUE and ART TOBIASON met on May 5, 1981 at a Hedy West concert at P.S. 41. The first actual date was at another club concert a couple of weeks later. Folk music has been a major part of their lives ever since.

JANE BABITS didn't believe in love at first sight until she laid eyes on TOBY FAGENSON at the club's Winter Weekend in 1982. By June, 1983, they were married. At the wedding, Toby sang, "You Bring Out the Best in Me," a song that he wrote about their relationship. Still love birds, they have rarely missed a club Winter Weekend since that special one in 1982.

HARVEY CORT and I met at a folk music party at the home of Toni Field and Bernie Goldschmidt in December, 1989. We are still happy together 14 years later. Our favorite current activities include babysitting for Amanda, Harvey's six-year-old granddaughter, and becoming acquainted with the newest granddaughter, Genevieve, now almost three months old.

When HARVEY BINDER and ALICE BACKER married in 1987, Harvey sang this song that he wrote (to the tune of "I Heard the Bluebirds Sing"). It begins, "I met a girl who likes to sing/ She made me think of wedding rings. We planned on being married in twelve years./ And though I thought she was good looking, I fell in love with all her cooking./ And every time I took a bite, I heard my stomach sing."

CLARICE KJERULFF noticed JERRY EPSTEIN at the club's Fall Weekend in 1981. Jerry noticed Clarice about a year later at a weekend gathering at the home of Suzanne Szasz Shorr. Not to rush...in the summer of 1984, at Pinewoods Camp, they took a canoe ride together and embarked upon a relationship that has been joyously afloat ever since.

EILEEN PENTEL and DON WADE met at a concert at the South Street Seaport in 1978. The first date was a sound job. They did a sound job, too, on building a fine relationship. June 1, 1986 was the date of their marriage ceremony and "Star of the

We Need Your Help!

The space at Brooklyn Poly, which we have been using for our Folk Off Broadway concerts, will no longer be available to us on any regular basis. We had the good luck for many years before that of being able to use the conference room at the League of Women Voters office at Broadway and 12th Street. Now we are coming to you, our members, for help.

Do you work or live somewhere where there is an inexpensive room that we can use for small concerts? (Manhattan location preferred.) We would need access on Friday or Saturday evenings, or alternately Sunday afternoons. In a pinch, we would even consider Thursday evenings. We would need seating for 15-45 people. Ideally, we would have 6-7 small concerts per year.

If you can help, call me at 1-718-549-1344 (after 11 AM,) or send an e-mail <ukelady1@prodigy.net>.

County Down” was their wedding song. On May 2, 1987, their son Willie, was born. Willie is now in high school. The folk music club continues to be a significant part of their lives.

WOODY and MARILYN KOZINS met at a club weekend in the 1980's. (Thank you, Marcus Tieman for that information.)

MARIANN PERSEO and TOM WEIR met on a club Fall Weekend in 1991 on a nature walk. Mariann writes, “We’ve been happy ever since. Actually, Tom was already happy, so we are now happier.”

So here’s to love and to life!

Presents a Series Concert

QUICKSTEP

Trish Miller & John Kirk.(Not shown: Mac Benford & Ed Lowman)

SATURDAY, MARCH 6TH - AT 8 PM ADVENT LUTHERAN CHURCH

Broadway at 93rd Street, NYC

Lively fiddle tunes, folksongs and fancy footwork are featured in a concert from John Kirk, Trish Miller, Mac Benford and Ed Lowman. This versatile string band from Upstate New York plays old-time music with twin fiddles, banjo, guitar, mandolin and bass. Dance is a regular part of their show, from step-dance to hambone. They have developed a diverse repertoire of original and old-time music rooted in the North Country. Their tunes and songs are drawn from Celtic and North American sources. Some selections are sentimental, others are humorous and some are toe-tappin' barn burners.

The Ballad of Abe and Gert

Abe and Gert Gershowitz have belonged to our club for many years and are two of our most beloved members. They recently celebrated their 60th Anniversary. One of Abe's favorite songs and one we all enjoy hearing him sing, and singing along with him, is "Drive Dull Cares Away".

Is it any surprise that Toby Fagenson, another long time club member, who is well known for writing wonderful songs wrote the "Ballad of Abe and Gert" to the same tune. In honor of Abe and Gert—here is their ballad!

This couple took their wedding vows in nineteen forty-three.
Their love still shines like a beacon, bright for all the world to see.
Both Abe Gert still love to flirt, kiss and hug and sing and play.
We praise them now as they show us how to
"Drive dull care away."

Chorus:
Away! Away! Away! Away!
How they drive dull care awa-ay!
We praise them now as they show us how to
Drive dull care away!!

This groom and bride traveled far and wide, Oh! The places they have gone!
From China's great, majestic wall to the land of the Amazon.
Although they must, in their wanderlust, have known moments of "Oy Vey!"
We Praise them now as they show us how to
"Drive dull care away!"

Chorus

Since their life together first commenced, they've lived their fondest dream.
They've seen three generations hence, who make them smile and beam.
First children, then grandchildren came. Great-grandparents now are they.
We praise them now as they show us how to
"Drive dull care away!"

Chorus

They worked in schools for many years, Abe taught and Gert was a nurse.
Though they've said "farewell" to those careers, their lives are none the worse.
The Bronx and Queens have been their scenes, now, Manhattan's where they stay.
We praise them now as they show us how to
"Drive dull care away!"

Chorus

The friendship they've bestowed on us has never come up short.
They're always there to lend a hand, and give their full support.
Let's blow a kiss to their wedded bliss! Sixty years! Wow! That ain't hay!
We praise them now as they show us how to
"Drive dull care away!"

chorus: (2xs)

EISTEDDFOD—NY

Hold the Dates
August 13-15, 2004

We are happy to announce that we will again be holding the Eisteddfod-NY. It was a great success last year, and we know that it will be even better this year.

WE NEED VOLUNTEERS! If you would like to help out in any way, call Alan Friend, 1-718-965-4074. Can you do anything before the festival; are you available only during the festival or only shortly before the festival? We need people to help organize the festival as well as workers at the site itself. Give us a call. We need you!!

Are you involved with an organization that could take out an ad (business card size or even a full page) in the festival program? Contact Heather Wood, 1-212-957-8386.
