Andy Cohen is a virtuoso finger-style guitarist who has been described as “a walking, talking folk-blues-roots music encyclopedia.” In addition to playing the guitar superbly, Andy is a master of the dolceola, an unusual instrument that might be described as a very miniature piano. Andy has dedicated his life to studying, performing, and promoting traditional blues, gospel, and folk music of the pre-World War II era. At an Andy Cohen concert you can expect to hear blues rooted in Mississippi, the Piedmont, Memphis, and Chicago, as well as some ragtime, some gospel, and a few original tunes. Andy's website: www.andycohenmusic.com

Alan Kaufman is a masterful old time fiddle player, mandolin player, guitar player, and singer of old time songs. He was a member of the influential Wretched Refuse String Band. Martin Carthy and John Doyle: THURSDAY, April 26th, 7:30pm

Martin Carthy is known as one of the most inventive, imaginative, and virtuosic guitar players of the folk revival. Carthy is one of folk music's greatest innovators, one of its best loved, most enthusiastic and, at times, most quietly controversial of figures. His skill, stage presence and natural charm have won him many admirers, not only from within the folk scene, but also far beyond it. His arrangements have influenced many folk performers, including those of Bob Dylan and Simon and Garfunkel. Carthy's musical collaborations comprise a virtual Who's Who of the British folk scene's past 50 years, and include, among others, the Watersons, The Albion Country Band, Dave Swarbrick, and Steeleye Span. He is one of folk music's most compelling performers.

"Arguably the greatest English folk song performer, writer, collector and editor of them all" — Q Magazine

John Doyle, known for his powerhouse rhythmic guitar style, innovative arrangements, and strong vocals, comes from a musical family in Dublin. His influences include well known English folk singers Nic Jones, Martin Carthy, Richard Thompson, and The Watersons; Scottish singers Dick Gaughan and John Martin; and fellow Irishmen Paul Brady and Al O'Donnell, as well as his father, Sean Doyle — probably the biggest influence of all. John formed the highly acclaimed super group, Solas, with Seamus Egan, John Williams, Karan Casey and Winifred Horan, which took the folk and Celtic music worlds by storm, in no small part due to John's powerhouse rhythmic guitar style and innovative arrangements. As a member of Solas, John has appeared on many national TV and radio programs: NBC's Today Show, programs for NPR and Public Radio International, A Prairie Home Companion. Many in New York remember Doyle as a featured performer in the New York Revels' Irish show a few years ago.

Don't miss this chance to see two of today's most innovative folk musicians together.

Brian has an international reputation as a performer and expert on the Child Ballads, and has led classes on the subject from England to Appalachia, but he enjoys traditional songs of all kinds, especially if there's a good chorus involved. He's a fine guitarist, specializing in alternate tunings, and as a squeezebox player he's acknowledged as a leading exponent of the anglo concertina and melodeon (button accordion). Having begun his career in the folk clubs of England, Brian has taken his music to stages all over the world, touring regularly in America, Europe, and Australia, always retaining a deep commitment to the musical traditions of his native country. He is well known and respected for the flexibility and precision of his performances with the traditional groups Tahuantinsuyo, Inkay, Wayramarka, Grupo Khana and Sumaq Punchau respectively.

The Folk Process

by Ruth Lipman

In January, Jane Babits and Toby Fagenson embarked upon a trip to Hawaii. They spent 17 glorious days enjoying great weather, meals and activities. These included various types of boating such as outrigger canoeing (which is like surfing waves in a canoe) as well as whale watching on a catamaran. And yes, Toby and Jane danced the hula to fabulous music.

Longtime club member Bob Witte, who has lived in Maine for some years, included a note in the membership renewal that he recently sent to Tom Weir, our membership chair: "Sorry not to have kept in touch, but have been recuperating from broken back. I can be reached at Lincoln Home, 22 River Rd., Newcastle, ME 04553, Tel: 207-563-5616."

Bob, we wish you a speedy recovery!

Sheila Ewall sent in news that Yiddish folksinger, Teddi Schwartz, passed away in October 2017 at the age of 103. Sheila learned this from the winter (2018) edition of the E.C.R.S. Newsletter. Among Teddi's accomplishments were her delightful renderings of American songs into Yiddish such as "Alter Donald" ("Old Mac Donald") and "Frumke un Yosel" ("Frankie and Johnny").

Review: Tom Paxton & The DonJuans - Back on Bleeker Street: Music for Social Change - 2/23/18

Tom Paxton appeared at The Sheen Center's Loreto Theater with the DonJuans, who are Don Henry and Jon Vezner. The DonJuans opened both sets with a few of their songs including, "Where've You Been." This song (recorded by Kathy Mattea) was the first song in country music history to sweep all major song of the year honors. I first heard Don perform this song years ago at a Folk Project Festival, and it is still as moving as the first time I heard it.

Along with the DonJuans Tom did many of his best-known songs, including "Last Thing on My Mind," "Did You Hear John Hurt," and "Rambling Boy." He added one of his latest, called "What's so Bad About That?" which had the line, "When you know you're right don't worry about the facts." Another new one called "What If No Matter?" is a moving song about gun violence, which includes the lines "What if no matter how angry he was, he couldn't lay hands on a gun?"

John Platt continued the series format of conversation and performance, exploring the intersection of music and social justice with insightful questions. It was fascinating to hear Tom talk about his early years in Greenwich village. They ended with the song, "Dream on Sweet Dreamers."
